In his statement dealing with the subject of foreign protests against the tariff bill, Senator Smoot gave a detailed statistical analysis of Australian tariff rates purporting to discriminate as between imports from Great Britain and the United States.

"Prior to the 1925 revision of the Australian tariff." Smoot said, "275 Items were admitted free from the United Kingdom. In the 1926 tariff act the number was increased from 275 items to 311. In the 1926 and 1928 act. items to 311. In the 1925 and 1928 act, the American rate was raised, but the British rate was not increased. Thus galvanized from, for instance, before 1925 was $4.80 per ton from America. The 1936 and 1928 act provided for a rate of $4.80 per ton on galvanized iron from England, whereas the American rate was increased to 314.40 per ton. Inasmuch as the English steel manufacturers had held over 90 per cent of Australia's import trade under the old rate, this widening of the gap between the English and American rates practically guaranteed a monopoly of the import trade to Great Britain so far as galvanized from was concerned.

"United States capital has been transferred to foreign countries in many cases in order to make use of their cheap labor. From what I can learn, many of the protests have been inspired by such sources and should be judged parallel with the United States importer."

Under the fog which was almost to the earth, the ground crew was fran-ie. The ancient refueling plane's mo-or would not respond. So F. M. Dur-fee, with a tiny little monocoupe, called Paul Whittier, and they sailed into the fog with a 5-gallon can of trasoline.

In the fog the two machines met and the can was lowered to the Angeleno. Mendell tore the top off the can and poured the precious fluid into the tank just as the engine started to sputter. Missing high-tension wires by inches, the Angeleno soared aloft scan.

At another time they had only 45 innutes' supply of gasoline aboard.
After the third day the fliers' spirits pared with their plane and the flippant toges they dropped to earth and their phant choices they dropped to earth and their cheery waves to the thousands at the surport as they zoomed down in greeting after each refueling revealed that the roling was easier.

savings of Virginians," Dr. Burruss said today.

"Nearly always, when an industry comes into the State it makes certain demands upon the community where it proposes to locate. These demands, of course, take the form of stock investment, housing, building sites, water supply, &c., and I understand that even in the case of such a large development as the Industrial Rayon Corporation. supply, &c., and I understand that even in the case of such a large development as the Industrial Rayon Corporation at Covington it was necesary to provide local capital for housing facilities, involving a very large sum. I am informed that practically all industries coming into the State require local financing to an extent approximately one-third to one-half of the total initial investment. Of course, there are exceptions to this.

Capital Investment Increases.

"According to figures presented by r Department of Labor and Industry "According to figures presented by our Department of Labor and Industry, the capital investment in our State increased in 1927, as compared with 1926, by $205,165,710. It seems reasonable to estimate that from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 of this increase was supplied by residents of Virginia or by firms which have been operating in our State for some time.

"Of course, this is simply an estimate based upon a general knowledge of demands made by concerns coming from outside of the State to locate from outside of the State to locate here upon observation of numerous developments in many localities which have been financed solely by local capital and the liberal attitude of our banks toward industrial financing. "By way of example, it may be said that in southwestern Virginia the furniture business has shown very substantial increases recently. Additions are being made in plants in Galax, Bassett, Pulaski, Bristol and doubtless other places. Practically all of these additions are being financed by local capital.

Valley Area Develops.

Valley Area Develops.

The Phoenix Cheese Co. is, I understand, from one-third to one-half locally financed. In the Shenandoah Valley section we find considerable development in the field of canning and preserving, and this expansion has been practically altogether financed by local capital. The furniture industry in Staunton, Harrisonburg and Wincheter has seen developments in the Hopewell districts. There are various small developments throughout the counties of the eastern section which I understand have been financed very much in the same plan as those in the southwest and Shenandoah Valley sections.

the southwest and Shenandoah Valley sections.

"Apparently there is no great difficulty in providing labor inwany section of the state. The supply of male labor seems to be abundant, although in many sections female labor has not been educated to industrial work. It appears that farms and mines are requiring less labor, so that as industry develops this supply of labor is absorbed within the State. As Auto Strikes Wagon JACKSON MEMORIA Boy's Skull Fractured

While riding in s small wagon, Robert Diane, I years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Diane, of Ballston, Va., was struck and seriously injured last night by an automobile driven by Taylor Jenkins, of Ballston. The boy is said by police to have been coasting in Clarendon down Spruce street and onto Wilson boulevard, where he ran in front of Jenkins car.

Jenkins and Hermon Bonney put the child in the auto and rushed him to Georgetown Hospital. Dr. E. S. Lyddane found that the boy had a fractured skull. The police did not hold Jenkins after he reported the accident.

OTHER PLEAS ARE HEARD

BUREAU OF THE POST. 9. Clarendon, Va. Tel. Clar. 509. The Arlington County Zoning Comission meeting last night at the court-Mrs. George H. Eckert for a permit for the establishment of a gasoline filling station to be located upon her own property at Glebe road and Lacey street.

Appearing before the commis Mrs. Eckert declared that the section in question was surely a business section, question was surely a business section, having the Arlington-Pairfax Railway car barns on one corner and a grocery store on the other, and could see no good reason why her permit should not be granted.

Upon motion made by Commissioner J. E. Spaulding the commission rescinded its former action and the application was approved.

Representing the citizens of Barcort, Walter K. Handy appeared before the commission and urged that no more permits be granted for businesses in that section. He assied that the establishment of the ice plant, recently started on Columbia pike, has created a dangerous attuation from a traffic standpoint in that it is too close to the highway.

standpoint in that it is too close to the highway. Handy further pointed out that that section of the Four Mile Run area is planned for a park area and any fur-ther business establishments will ruin the section.

The chairman of the commission, Pred Gosnell, announced that it will take under consideration the requests. The application of Thomas J. Crow-ell for a permit for the ejection of a garage for storage of trucks along the Jefferson Dayls highway was referred to County Engineer C. L. Kimmer for a further study as to the location.

With crushed stone being distributed along the Wilson boulevard from Clarendon avenue to Ballston, extensive road improvements are under way. The boulevard from Clarendon avenue to Ballston will be given a resurfacing. Bids for the widening and resurfacing from the Military road to Clarendon avenue will be opened by the county board of supervisors at its meeting Truesday, July 30.

Not in the past five years has there been such activity in road improvements in and around Clarendon. Yesterday Rucker avenue and Virginia avenue were both given a heavy resurfacing of far and stone extending from Wilson boulevard to the Lee Highway. Ellerson avenue was also resurfaced from the boulevard to a point way. Ellerson avenue was also resurfaced from the boulevard to a point where it enters Lyon Village, a distance of two blocks.

The program calls for improvements to Washington avenue from Clarendon to Lyon Park, as this road will be one of the main detours leading into Washington during construction work on Wilson boulevard. It is planned also, it is understood, to make improvements along Pershing drive from Lyon Park Station to the Glebe road.

All work is being done under the supervision of County Engineer L. C. Kinnier.

ORATOR CITES HISTORY

Special to The Washington Post, Martineburg, W. Va., July 12.—A dig-nified block of native limestone with nified block of native limestone with bronze plate inscription was unveiled under the auspices of the Berkeley County Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, on the William Small farm, 6 miles north of here along the farm, 6 miles north of here along the State highway, yesterday, commemo-rating three things—the place where the war between the States begun, by reason of the first action in the Shen-andosh Valley; the place of the first cavalry action in the entire war, and the place where one of the great mili-tary men of history, Gen. Stonewall Jackson, native West Virginian, showed his typically striking indifference to fear.

Jackson, native West Virginian, snowed his typically striking indifference to fear.

The bronze tablet bears this inscription: "In memory of Gen. Stonewall Jackson. This tablet is erected by the Berkeley County Chapter, United Daughters of Confederacy, to commemorate an instance of Gen. Jackson's remarkable bravery at all times in the face of greatest danger. On this site, July 2, 1861. Gen. Jackson was seated under an oak tree, giving orders, when fired upon by Federal troops. A cannon ball cut off a limb of the tree, but Jackson, unhurt, rode calmiy away."

Attoray H. H. Byrer, orator for the occasion, cited history to show the thireefold significance of the memorial tablet. He also recalled that the famous Stonewall Brigade "was made up entirely at the outset of mem from Jefferson, Berkeley, Frederick and Clarke counties, all in Virginia then; and that "Stonewall" Jackson formed and held throughout his life unceasing attachment for the people of the Shenandoah Valley, regarding them peculiarly as his own people.

Sketches Military Movement.

Sketches Military Movement

Sketches Military Movement.

He sketched the "Falling Waters" affair, as it was related by Gen. Joseph Johnson. As one of the first moves of the first moves of the Civil War, he said, a Federal army under Gen. Patterson crossed the Potomac at Williamsport, Md., to invade the South. Jackson, then a colonel, was sent northward with 380 infantrymen, comprising the backbone of what afterward became "Stonewall's Brigade," plus 100 cavalrymen and four pleces of artillery. Jackson's orders were to "intercept and feel out" the enemy; to keep their advance from being made too rapidly; and to test out the newly fledged soldiery under him.
Jackson succeeded in holding the Federals in check for many hours. It seems established that under an oak tree growing on the spot where the memorial now stands, Col. Jackson sat writing out orders when a cannon ball from the Federal artillery took out a part of the top of the tree. Jackson continued writing, unmoved, and finished the orders before he quietly suggested the party move away.
Jackson had his slender forces deployed along both sides of the pike in that section, with three of his artillery pieces sent forward toward that Union forces and the river, and one piece held back at the brow of the hill.

Officer Tricks Federals.

It seems established also, Byrer said, that the officer in command of the 100 Confederate cavalrymen, clad in a blue uniform, which the Federals mistook for one of their own, rode into a group of 44 of the Federal troops, also entirely new and green to warfare, and tricked them into laying down their arms and surrendering. Jackson later retired to the Darkesville section, south of here.

WORKERS IN ENGLAND

Half-Million Persons in Textile Industry May Be Affected in Wage Cut Row.

UNIONS REJECT DEMANDS

Manchester, England, July 12 (A.P.).

A big lockout in the cotton manufacturing industry, possibly affecting 500000 workers, was expected tonight to result from the decision today of the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners to enforce a reduction of 12.82 per scent in wages from July 29.

The ballotting of the federation was overwhelmighy, in favor of reduction. The weaving side of the industry already had decided, without a ballot, to apply the reduction. All the workers' unions have agreed to reject the demands of the employers.

There seemed little hope of reaching any compromise before July 29 unless the minister of labor intervenes. He may do this if the parties themselves are unable to arrive at a settlement.

This is the first big labor dispute since the Labor government came into office. The workers are firmly opposed to the idea of compromise. They argue that the serious condition in which the industry now is really is due to its overcapitalization during the boom period after the war. They think it behooves the employers to put their financial flouses in order.

The Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Association today sent out notices of the reduction in wages, amounting to 2 shillings and 6 pence in the pound sterling, or about 60 cents in $5.

The cotton spinners maintain that the poor condition of the industry necessitated the reduction.

000,000 and getting $200,000,000 worth of Navy."
When Secretary of Navy Wilbur relieved Admiral Magruder of his command he issued a statement that "the order to Admiral Magruder is not punitive: it is administrative." He added, though, that the Secretary of the Navy should not be expected to "get information from naval officers concerning plans for the Navy organization by obtaining newspapers or magazines in which such information is published." Secretary of Navy Adams inherited the Magruder case as one of the left-overs from Secretary Wilbur's administration. Recently there have been insistent demands that the case be cleared up immediately. Senator William H. King, of Utah, went so far as to introduce, a bill shortly before Congress recessed demanding an investigation of Magruder's continued status of "awaiting orders."

That Secretary Adams has been putting considerable study on the case and trying to find a place for the admiral has been known for some time, and cumors have been current that the Secretary would reassign Magruder at almost any time.

LOCKOUT THREATENS The Listening Post

THE Ancient and Benevolent Order of Statement Makers is preparing for a hasty meeting for the purpose of taking disciplinary action against the Lord's Day Alliance. The alliance is to be shown that it cannot with immunity flout the statement-making organization's most tried and honored rule.

Attorney Charles Calvert last night asked a change of venue to the Prince Georges County Police Court at Hyattsville in the case of William S. Keys, member of the Mary'nd House of Delegates, charged with violation of the town building law.

Calvert, himself charged with disorderly conduct, represents Delegate Keys, James E. Degga, also charged with disorderly conduct, and P. Fred Johnson, charged with interfering with an officer as a result of a controversy between the Keys group and Mayor John Beall of Mount Rainier, over the building of an addition to a restaurant owned by Keys. Mayor Beall also is charged with disorderly conduct in warrant sworn out by Keys.

Justice Joyce said the town had a right to make rules and regulations, and that if they were not enforced it would be just as well to destroy the town charter. He granted by 124 in the Hyatstaville Police Court.

church was built.

During the ensuing 85 years, up to the present time, seven rectors have served at the church. Following Dr. French they were the Rev. Charles Hall, the Rev. Wilbur F. Watkins, the Rev. William Foret, the Rev. Samuel H. Giesy, the Rev. Randolph Harrison Mc-Kim, the Rev. James E. Freeman, now Bishop of Washington and the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, the present rector.

these ministers were the presiding rectors, the church has undergone improvements. When Dr. Hall was rector, the church was enlarged to twice its original size, the transepts were added and a bell placed in the tower.

The next marked improvement, during the regime of Dr. McKim, was the construction of a new roof and vestibule and the erection of a baptistery. The brass pulpit, still in use, was given in memoriam, the organ was removed from the south gallery and a new chancel built with oaken choir stalls and messale pavement. The entire church was richly frescoed.

In 1911, a large and up-to-date parish house was put into service, this building housing a large auditorium, gymnasium, class rooms, offices, kitchen, pantries and other modern conveniences. During the brief rectorably of Dr. Freeman, the improvements consisted of a new tower of the block style, and the ipstallation therein of a chime of fifteen beils in memory of Dr. McKim. The church was resurfaced and many interior changes made for the enlargement of the seating capacity. The total cost of the improvements was approximately $90,000.

At the persent itme, the church is undergoing elaborate redecorations and repairs. Dr. Phillips, the present rector, has served since May 12, 1924.

How FAST Is the Air Mail

The fact is undeniable that airplanes can travel greater distances in far less time than is required by any other medium of transportation BUT—how much quicker (?) does your letter reach its destination when you affix an air mail stamp?

A Constructive Criticism

To tear aside the veil of romanticism and present "the facts as they are" should prove the most practical aid to aviation . . . Although this article may appear in some respects derogatory to the air mail service it will be published with a sincere desire to reveal faults in order that they may be rectified.

THE WASHINGTON POST has conducted a unique investigation to determine the efficiency of the air mail and its practicability as a means of rapid communication . . . The result of this experiment will upset many conceptions of air mail speed and forms the basis of a sensational and exclusive story in Sunday's issue of

Your Future and the Future of Your Family Is at Stake

Where will you be five years from now? What will be your mental outlook at that time? What will be your habits? Who your associates? What will be your physical and financial status? What your religious and mental standards?

It is sure that what you are doing now will point almost exactly to the answer to each of these questions.

Few men or women are able to make sweeping revisions in their modes of living over night.

Most changes come in a gradual way. What man can stop a hundred bad habits one day and begin a hundred good ones the next?

It isn't done that way. Life is a constant change with everything being done by easy stages. The paths you are treading today will become broader and easier to follow no matter in which direction they are leading.

Where you will be five years from today depends upon whether you are a little better or a little worse tomorrow or a month from today.

Try to elevate yourself a little each day, each week. Save a little money each week, deposit it carefully or invest it wisely and you will be surprised at the growth in five years.

Spend your money and time foolishly, and associate with wrong companions and in five years you probably will be a liability to your community and a disgrace to your family.

THE CHINESE-SOVIET CLASH. The Nationalist government of China has boldly grappled with Russian communism and is facing war with the Soviet government. Ever since the Nationalists began their campaign for the unification of China they have been tormented by the reds, who succeeded once or twice in frustrating Chinese amalgamation and stirred up mutinies and massacres in both southern and central China. Canton and Peking have been hotbeds of communist intrigue, while Manchuria has been regarded by the reds as their legitimate prey. Recently the Russian consulate at Harbin was raided and documentary evidence discovered which revealed widespread plots against the Nationalist government. The Soviet government entered a vigorous protest against the raid, demanding the release of all prisoners, the return of property, and the punishment of the raiding party. The Soviet gave notice that the extraterritorial rights enjoyed by Chinese officials in Russia were withdrawn.

Instead of complying with the Soviet demand, the Nationalist government has seized the Chinese Eastern Railroad, telegraphs and telephones, thrown out all Russian officials, and sent many of them to the border. Harbin is seething with excitement, fully expecting immediate retaliation by force from the Soviet. Red troops are said to be massing along the Siberian Railroad preparatory to invading Manchuria. Nationalist forces are available to meet them.

The Chinese Eastern Railroad was built by the Russian imperial government. Since 1924 it has been under control of a directorate composed of five Russians and five Chinese. Under the agreement of 1924 the Russians agreed to refrain from communist propaganda, and this agreement, according to the Chinese authorities, has been persistently violated.

Japan is directly affected by the de velopments in north Manchuria. The Chinese Southern Railroad, operated by tanan in Manchurian territory in which ome a part of the theater of war in ase of a Soviet-Nationalist clash. It is reported from Tokyo that Japan would indeavor to remain neutral in such a var, but an aroused national movement the Chinese might not make much distinction between foreign claimants of Chinese territory.

The red army of the Soviet is supsed to be well drilled and disciplined. bout six divisions are in Siberia, between Lake Baikal and Vladivostok, composed of infantry, cavalry, artillery, tank orps, aircraft and railroad engineers. The Chinese forces in Manchuria are upposed to be equivalent to fifteen di-Asions, loosely organized, but trained in warfare and well equipped."

Will the Russians fight on foreign oil? They have never fought well in nch circumstances. They disintegrated n the march toward Warsaw early in he bolshevik regime and were easily routed. The Soviet leaders have always proclaimed that the red army would ever be used for foreign service, but ould be held for the actense of the atherland. The enthusiastic young men no make up the red army are such fanatical communists that they may not be manageable in an attempt to wage aggressive war against neighbors. They know they have no right to take Manchuria. All Chinese, on the other hand, regard Manchuria as an integral part of their country, and their bold attitude last year in the face of Japanese threats an indication that they will never yield Manchuria unless they are defeated as a nation by military experience and modern resources. An invasion of Manchuria by the Russian red army would probably have far-reaching consequences, possibly embroiling some of the European powers as well as Japan.

China is not the slinking pacifist of old. The new spirit of nationality, en-

THE PROBLEM OF DISTRIBUTION.

For the first time in history the census to be taken next year will include statistics on the distribution of commodities. Secretary of Commerce Lamont has announced that advisory committees of practical business men will be asked to cooperate with the Government in assembling complete data on this subject as well as on manufactures, unemployment and population. The broadened scope of the 1930 census will make it an invaluable index of economic trends and commercial problems.

Two years ago the Department of Comnerce, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, took what is termed a sample census of distribution covering eleven American cities. The statistics gathered brought to light many important marketing problems which had not been previously understood. The present plan is to have census enumerators visit every wholesale and retail establishment in the country. When the data are tabulated and analyzed the country will have a more adequate conception of its distribution systems than ever before. For many years the Government has collected statistics concerning population. agriculture, mining, manufactures, births, deaths, marriages, divorces, wealth, taxation and many other phases of industrial and social life, Such information has, without doubt, tended to increase the country's productivity. The output per factory worker has been rapidly increasing in recent years. Conversely, the cost of transferring commodities from the producer to the consumer has been increasing, and this economic problem has been neglected by the census takers. Secretary Lamont quoted an estimate that between $8,000,000,-000 and $10.000,000,000 is wasted annuall; through uneconomic practices within the distribution systems. There is no ultimate economy in cutting down the costs of production and adding to the expenses of distribution. Production on a large scale naturally reduces costs per unit. Commodities thus produced must be distributed over a wider area at an increased cost for transportation. It is by no means certain, however, that this expense accounts for the difference between factory and retail prices. Any savings which can be effected in the process of merchandising ought to benefit the consuming public. The Department of Commerce is to be commended for its comprehensive plan for making statistics available that may lead to reduced costs of distribution.

COST OF MEDICAL TREATMENT.

Plans for reducing the cost of medical treatment so that it may be available to all classes received relatively little attention at the annual convention of the American Medical Association. Dr. Malcolm L. Harris. placed before the medical men of the country a comprehensive plan for establishment of clinics by county medical associations. The plan was considered radical by a number of delegates, and the convention decided to postpone the whole question until next year.

The high cost of medical treatment was the foremost subject confronting the association when it convened. There will be general disappointment that no action was taken, especially if the postponement means that the association intends to sidestep the issue. On the other hand, if it is intended that the problem should be studied for another year before a definite plan is launched, the delay is commendable. It would be unfortunate if some hastily conceived plan were adopted only to result in failure.

The medical profession refused to accept the responsibility for the increasing cost of Compensation for medical and surgical services has not increased in proportion to the cost of everything else. Nevertheless, the public is looking to the medical profession for a change in practices which make expert treatment prohibitive to a large class of people. If the profession does not find a remedy there will be repeated demands for action by State and local governments.

Dr. Harris asserted that it is the "undis puted obligation of the profession" to furnish medical services to the masses at a price within their means. His plan is for incorpora tion of county medical societies. Each society would become a health center properly equipped for diagnosis and treatment of all ambulatory patients. Every patient would pay for services, the amount to be governed by his economic status and the nature of treatment given. Those able to pay regular fees would have their personal physicians, as at present. Those unable to pay anything would be considered public charges for whom the community would have to pay. The plan would ultimately be extended to include care of patients in their homes and in hospitals. The medical profession would organize on a business basis, and look after the financial as well as the technical end of caring for the

Whether this plan can be adapted to the needs of American communities remains to be seen. It is encouraging to find the profession has taken cognizance of the need for reduced medical costs. The subject should be given intensive study before the next meeting of the medical association.

FOR SUBMARINE SAFETY.

The foundering of the British submarine, H-47, in the Irish Sea marks the eleventh major submarine disaster since the World None of the great powers except Germany has escaped the tragedles, and the 21 men who were carried to their deaths in the H-47 brought the total fatalities in submarine disasters to 486. Each of these tragedles has shocked the civilized world, invariably causing renewed agitation for the abandonment of the submarine.

The submarine proved to be an efficient weapon during the World War, and it has been improved considerably since. It was raider, scout, and, on occasion, transport, and there can be no doubt but that in future wars it will be extensively used. An agreement might be reached among the powers to couraged by many successes, is fortified | abandon the submarine, but plans for submarines would be filed away and when war. threatened or developed they would be constructed with feverish activity. Probably, in that event, they would be poorly constructed and in any event there would be no highly trained operating personnel. The result would be disaster after disaster.

The submarine should not be abandoned It should be developed further, with liberal allowance for experimentation in safety methods and installation of safety and salvage equipment. There is no reason why submarines can not be made relatively safe, and every effort should be expended toward that

NOISY FIRE APPARATUS.

The Eastern Association of Fire Chiefs is meeting this week in New York City. Most of the discussion, naturally, has turned to technical matters in which there is little general interest, but one field has been discussed in which the public is interested. Chief John Kenlon, of New York City, brought up the question of fire apparatus noise, and he described as "perfect pandemonium" the progress of a fire company on its return from conflagration. There seemed to be general agreement among the chiefs that the sounding of sirens, blowing of whistles and ringing of bells by apparatus returning from fires is unnecessary, and Chief Ross Davis, of Philadelphia, went so far as to assert that fire apparatus, after it had extinguished a blaze, "had no more rights than any other vehicle on the streets."

Fire apparatus reaches its low ebb of use fulness when returning from a conflagration. The time it spends in the streets should be re duced to a minimum, but there is no need for high speed in returning to the firehouse. Other apparatus has been moved to a central location where it becomes a second line of defense, and is ready to answer calls.

Enough potential tragedy rides with fire trucks on the way to fires. The public should not be subjected to alarm, uproar and peril by returning fire apparatus.

SOVIET RECOGNITION

By THEODORE M. KNAPPEN In the Magazine of Wall Street.

The current year is regarded as the most critical the Soviet economic regime has encountered. It may determine a sweeping change of policy; if not, this change will come at the most within a few years, for the general situation is regarded as certain to grow worse. The general disintegration, if it continues, is held certain eventually to have political repercussions. The Communist party will have to choose between the sacrifice of some of its principles or the sacrifice of the nation.

Stalin, the real present czar of Russia, is reported to have said that when the hour of decision comes he will move to save the nation. He is represented as moving slowly and cautiously in the direction of recession from extreme communism. Trotzky, the uncompromising 100-per center of communism, was first demoted, humiliated, punished by deportation to an obscure village in Asia, and finally eased into foreign exile.

By way of conciliating the extremists some of the party leaders who favor an abrupt change of policy have been mildly disciplined but they have not been ejected, and they consider that they are being kept in reserve for service when Stalin thinks that the time is propitious for such a departure from communistic principles as is necessary to save Russia and the Communist party control of the country. When that time comes Russia will even more than now desperately need foreign assistance to effect economic rehabili-

The conditions of recognition by the United States are that Russia must recognize Russian national debts owed to foreigners, make compensation for the nationalization of foreign owned property and cease to undermine other governments by subversive propaganda and worse. The Hoover administration has recently an nounced that it stands firm on these conditions of recognition, which have been consistently adhered to by the Wilson, Harding and Coolidge administrations. This position is not only the formal policy of the American Government, but it is the tenaciously held personal judgment of the President, which he frequently expressed while Secretary of Com-

The Russians are and always have been dreamy plotters and schemers. They are revealed in current discussions of American relations as ingenuously believing that they can appeal to Mr. Hoover's vanity by offering him the role of "reconstructor" of Russia, and that they can appeal to American greed by offers of opportunities to get the better of other nations in the rehabilitation of their country. They talk of playing the economic ambitions and "imperialistic aspirations" of Great Britain against those of the United States, and they really think that the United States can be cajoled by promises of superior privileges and intimidated by threats of discrimination into a sacrifice of principle and a risk of enormous credits.

This all the veriest moonshine. The United States is not interested in the chicane of international rivalries but it is profoundly interested in international good faith. Russia must not only make restitution of properties, and honor its obligations; but it must do so in a manner that confesses its breaches of good faith. There may be room for negotiations over the bookkeeping of settlement, but none over the principle; and no introduction of alleged offsets for American military action in the course of the prosecution of the war against Germany after Russia's defection from the allies. The position of the United States is adamant and will remain such during the Hoover administration. There is a wide open door for Russian recognition-and no other. Ramsay MacDonald will spare himself a rebuff if he will leave Russia out of his conference

Ormsby McCammon, and they will be at Edgewater House until after the wedding.

Only a small family group will attend the ceremony, but Mr. and Mrs. Letter have sent out invitations for a wedding breakfast to follow. A few guests will go on from Washington, but for the most part the company will be recruited from the friends of the couple who have summer homes on the North Shore. Among them will be Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins, who have recently taken a cottage there. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benning Spencer will go from Narragansett Pier, where they have a summer home, to Beverly Farms for the wedding. The Spencers and Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins are close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins are close friends of Mr. and Mrs. Letter and associated with them in the leadership of the Dancing Class, that exclusive little organization whose 100 members may be considered Washington's "400."

Mrs. Pitney will be unattended, but Mr. Letter will give her in marriage. After a short motor trip Mr. Rawls and his bride will return to Marion, Mass., where she has a cottage, to remain through the summer. Mr. Rawls has been living in New York for the last two years and Mrs. Pitney has a house in Aiken, S. C. They expect to retain both residences in the future.

Although a New Yorker by adoption, Mr. Rawls claims Detroit as home. Mrs. Pitney has never lived in the Michigan city, but it was the home of her father's family for generations and her uncle, the late Right Rev. Mott Williams, was for many years Bishop of Marquette, Milliams, made her debut in Washing.

by her two older sisters, Julistic (Mrs. Leiter) and Dorothy (Mrs. Sterling) was a beauty and a belle. Mr. John Bailentine Pitney died several years ago. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. H. Pitney, of Morristown, N. J., and a kinsman of the late Justice Mahlon Pitney. Mrs. Pitney has two young sons, John Williams Pitney and James Duncan Pitney. Mr. Rawis is a bachelor and a banker by profession. His mother, who has been in Europe, has returned in order to be present at her son's weedding.

Hoover Guests Depart After Pleasant Stay

New Naval Aid Arrives in Washington to Assume Duties.

The President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guests at the White House Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff, of Chicago, and Mr. George Barr Baker, of New York and California, who left yesterday to return to their homes.

The President and Mrs. Hoover entertained at dinner Thursday night, when their guests were, beside Mr. and Mrs. George Cole Scott, of Richmond, Va., and their son, George Cole Scott, Jr., Capt. and Mrs. Allen Buchanan, Mrs. J. H. Large, her daughter, Miss Janet Large, and Miss Mildred Hall.

Capt. Buchanan has arrived in Washington from the West Coast, where he has been commanding the U. S. S. Omaha, to take up his duties as the President's naval aid. He was appointed to the post several months ago, but Commander William R. Munro has been "pinch hitting" for him until his tour of duty with the fleet was completed. Capt. Buchanan will be officially "naval aid to the President." beginning next week.

"His Worship," the Mayor of King's officially "naval aid to the President," beginning next week.

"His Worship," the Mayor of King's Lynn, England, spent yesterday in Washington in the distinguished person of the Marchidness of Townshend. The Capital learned that this was the proper way to address an English mayor, even if of the feminine persuasion, when the Mayor of Southampton came a-visiting last summer, the guest of the U. S. shipping lines, which have their British port at Southampton.

Lady Townshend came to this country to take part in the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the founding of Lynn, Mass., named for the English Lynn. She visited Washington especially to call upon President House by the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard. Afterward she motored with her host to Langley Park, the summer embassy, where she was entertained informally at luncheon. Beside the British Ambassador, Lady Isabella Howard and their sons, who are with them at Langley Park, the little company included only the Marchioness of Townshend, her young son, the seventh Marquis of Townshend, who accompanied her to Washington, and Mr. James Garfield.

The Marchioness of Townshend and her party left the Maylower, where they were staying, last evening for New York and will sail on Monday for England. Her home, Raynham Hall, in Norfolk, is some 20 miles from King's Lynn.

PEATH OF BASPUTIN.

PRINCE PELIX YOUSSOUPOFFS
account of how he assasinated the monk Rasputin contains two items of medical interest. One relates to the young son of the czar. That he was a weakling was a matter of common information. Prince Youssoupoff, who was a near relative, tells us the nature of his disorder. He says the boy had hemophilia. Hemophilia is a condition characterized by noncoagulability of the blood. Children with this disorder have no symptoms under ordinary circumatances. They are generally happy and in good health. But if they get a nose bleed or a cut or have a tooth pulled, they are liable to bleed to death. Since the exarevitch was sickly he must have had some other disorder in addition to this one.

E. R. B. writes: Could an injury to the back of the head, received in a fall, cause diabetes?

A man informed me that he passed a very thorough examination when applying for insurance. Two weeks after that time he fell, striking the back of his head and necessitating a trip to the doctor. Shortly thereafter he was informed he had diabetes.

Another man I know also fell, hitting the back of his head, stunning him for a minute or two. A few moments thereafter he was told by his doctor that he had diabetes.

REPLY.

My guess is that both cases were coincidences rather than cause and effect.

And yet brain injury may cause either diabetes mellitus or diabetes insipidus.

At times, if events do not march along as quickly as you think they should, your self-confidence wanes, and you begin to lose hope. It would be well to cultivate more virtue of persistency. There is, of course, a streak of selfishness in your make-up, as, in your keen desire for advancement, you are disposed to subordinate all other issues, especially those that spring from emotion. You often find it necessary to stifle the finer feelings in order to gain your ends, and this, oft repeated has a deteriorating influence on your general character.

DOZENS OF STOCKS HIT NEW ALTITUDES

Reduction in Brokers' Loans Causes Wild Demonstration by Bulls.

UTILITIES AGAIN IN LEAD

New York, July 12 (A.P.) .- The dene in brokers' loans this week, while legligible in volume, was such a sant experience after the advances totaling nearly $500,000,000 during ne, that the bull forces staged one of the wildest demonstrations witsed in months on the stock market

More than three dozen issues, including such old stand-bys as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Can. Consolidated Gas and Union Pacific were hurled up to record altitudes in heavy trading, carrying total sales for the session to 4,759,130 shares, the largest turnover since May.

Operations for the advance once more centered in the utilities, about a dozen of this group reaching record levels. The Associated Press index of 20 leading utilities was sent up more than 9 points to a new high. While the rails joined but moderately in the upturn, the index of 20 leading carrier stocks rose about a point, slightly exceeding the record peak reached Monday. Some irregularity persisted in the industrials, however, steels and specialties making notable advances, while motors and coppers eased.

Call money again held at 9 per cent.

Although the drop of $14,000,000 in brokers loans was enthusiastically received, there was nothing in the Federal Reserve statements to indicate any immediate prospect of substantially easier credit. The facts that the New

Ork banks made no reduction in wheir heavy borrowings at the Reserve in mittution during the week and that rediscounts of the system increased, gave rise to predictions that the longexpected improvement in the money market may not appear for another week.

The day's business news, while containing little of moment, continued favorable. The weekly reviews stressed the abnormally large volume of trade for this time of year. Directors of Youngstown Sheet and Tube recommended a 20 per cent stock dividend, and of Universal Leaf Tobacco, a 35 per cent stock distribution. A few sernings statements appeared, Continental Baking reporting net of $3, 424.716 for the 25 weeks ended June 22, against $2,084,551 for the like period last year.

424,716 for the 25 weeks ended June 22, against $2,084,551 for the like period last year.

Consolidated Gas was a leader of the utility group, mounting more than 7 points to a record price. Western Union came to the front in the late trading with an advance of 11½ points, carrying it to a new top at 221½ Standard Gas, Columbia Gas, Public Bervice, of New Jersey, and North American were others breaking into new high ground.

U. S. Steel mounted 5½ points to a record level at 203½, about 40 points above the year's low. Bethlehem, Youngstown. Republic rud several other independents also reached new tops. Midland Steel Products preferred fumped 8 points, but lost its gain in realizing. Commercial Solvents was a high filer, soaring 24½ points, while American Bank Note. Electric Autolite. International Telephone, Continental Can, and Railway & Express rose to new tops in lesser gains. Allis-Chaimers mounted 11 points, and Auburn Auto 10.

Outfielder Is Acquitted of Red's Charges But Is Warned.

Donohue Not in Position to Defend Self. Cincinnati Claims.

New YORK, July 12. (AP.) John A. Heydler, president of the National League, today in effect acquitted Hack Wilson, rotund out-fielder of the Chicago Cubs, of an alleged "unjustifiable and brutal assault" on Pete Donohue, veteran righthanded pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds. Wilson knocked Donohue down in the Union Station, Chicago, the night of July 4 after an argument. A formal protest from the Cincinnati club led President Heydler to institute an investigation as to whether the attack was begun before Donohue was in a position to defend himself. The league executive decided that the evidence did not support such a charge. Fight Followed Earlier Row In Reds' Dugout.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltitoner, July 12.—Billy Jacobs brought a new title to his tennis famous family when he conquered Frank Shore, of Washington, in straight sets at Mount Washington this afternoon in the final round of the Maryland State junior tournament.

Jacobs defeated the Capital player decisively, 6—1, 7—5, 6—3. He played perfect tennis against an adversary who was not hitting his shots at all effectively. Billy's service was hard and steady, his ground strokes were well placed and his volleys ably executed. Shore had too much trouble returning and an instinct to let fly with his right hand. He states that any preliminary prize fighter of 135 pounds or over could lick any pleasure fighter in the major leagues at any given time, regardless of weight, thit with fungo sticks, pop bottles and neck holds barred.

O'Brien Has Advice
For Pleasure Fighters.

"It may cost some pride," Mr. O'Brien said, "but if a man who is not a trained boxer with ring experience would always remember that he knows practically nothing about fist fighting and only looks funny when he tries it, there CONTINUED ON PAGE 14, COLUMN 6.

Hayes, Subbing for Miss Simplicity Scores at 6-1; Okaybee Is Second.

EMERY PLAYGROUND was apparently loaded for bear yesterday, and won its dual meet against Hayes Playground, which substituted at the last minute for Wheatley, the team that was scheduled to meet the Emery runners. The winners totaled 106 points to 66 scored by Hayes, but owing to the short notice given the Hayes coach was unable to muster his full strength.

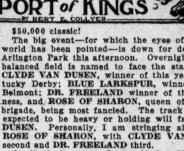

Pearson and Payne, of Emery, tied for the high-point scoring honors, with 10 each. Payne's efforts in the 100-yard dash were particularly noteworthy, as a large number of competitors faced the starter, and several were considered unusual performers by playground officials.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, July 12 (A.P.)—James Butler's Mira Simplicity turned a form fip-flop when she led home some good sprinters in the Pocanontas Handicap here to-day. Miss Simplicity paid 6 to 1, and when she was ready simply breezed away from the field. There was very little applause for the winner.

Okaybee jumped off into the lend and quickly disposed of Lady Fair and then drew clear of the field, but around the turn Miss Simplicity closed with a rush and taking the lead won by four lengths. Okaybee beat Virmar haif a length for the place.

INSECT NINES BEGIN 2D ROUND

Teams Defeated in First Games Out for Revenge.

STARTING their second swing among rival teams, the Clyde Milans will meet the Sam Wests and the Brookland Boys Club will clash with the Lionels in two Capital City League Insect Section games today. Tomorrow the Georgetown and Eastern Afl-Star Nines will meet in one of the feature games. The Gallagher A. C.-Corinthian contest carded for today has been postponed.

In their previous clash, which formally opened the league in May, the Wests easily defeated the Milans, 13 to 6. Both teams have undergone many changes since then and the result of today's game is doubtful. These nines are trailing the field to date, the Milans, having dropped all games thus far.

Lionels May Avenge Early Less to Brookland B. C.

The Lionels will be out for revenge today as the Brooklad Boys Club Nine won in their first meeting, 11 to 7, Since that meeting the Brookland lads have declined and the Lionels have given the leaders real battles. These rival teams are tied for third place at present and the deadlook will be settled today.

It took 10 innings for the George.

Pitcher Cates, of Nats.

Sent to Cumberland President Clark Griffith last night announced that Pitcher Howard Cates has been released to the Cumberland Middle Atlantic League team on option by the Nationals.

Cates is the southpaw pitcher who recently was bought by the Washington Club after he had falled to make the grade with the Baltimere Orioles.

LEGIONS IN GAME TODAY.

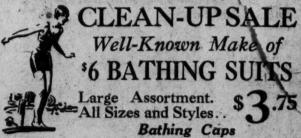

Hat Shyder-Farmer Post Nine, of the Hyattayille American Legion, plays its first game of the Maryland legion series today when it entertains the Guy C. Parlett Post, of Annapolis, Md., on the Riverdale diamond in Hyattayille beginning at 2 o'clock.

The Snyder-Farmer Post was runner-up last year in the series and hopes to win this season by getting off to a good start today. MoReynolds and Watson will be its battery. The Annapolis Nines' battery has not been announced.

Now the New Yorkers come back with a larger, mare experienced, well-drilled squad. They encamped at the Washington Cance Club last night confident that the honors they narrowly missed last year will be achieved today.

From the metropolitan area comes another cohender for the laurels which representatives of the Philadelphia, Bristol, Washington, Fotomao and Old Dominion bat clubs will also seek. The Inwood Cance Club, of New York City, rates much the same as Yonker did last year. Little is known of this strength of the Inwood craftsmen, all though they performed well here in the Shrine-Regata of 1928. Inwood will have severalistrong junior crews on the water today.

ton of the mystery, and the general idea at Scotland Yard was that he was as neducated man who had escaped to France.

Now, it is a peculiar fact that ordinary criminals do not attempt to leave England, and for a very excellent reason. A man without a knowledge of a foreign language or of foreign customs is a hoppiess creature in a new land since the descriptions of wanted men are circulated instantly abroad, it would have been generally impossible that they should evade capture.

Scotland Yard can count on the fingers of one hand men who have committed crimes and have made for iffection international crooks and a seful bowers who are as much at homein Paris and Berlin as they are in London.

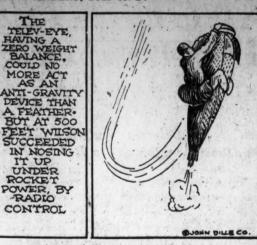

CHAPTER VI.

THERE was the Slough murder in a nutshell—a commonplace, wicked crime, committed by one who was obviously unknown to the police, distinction of could bring no list or clew as to the perpettaror. Stock Trading Sets Record.

Stock and bond volume records have been reversed in the last two days on the Washington Stock Exchange. Thursday's session saw a new high for bond business in the last three months when transactions totaling $24.600 were made and stock sales fell to 19 shares, the record low with one exception in that period. Yesterday, stock turnover totaled 2.349 shares, making a record high in volume for the past three months.

Bond transactions yesterday amounted to $13.200, a $11.400 decline from the previous session. The amazing advance in stock sale volume was caused by exchange of 2.060 shares of Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred at 7%, fractional rise. Stock quotations were little changed. While there were no sales in Washington Gas, the saked price advanced to 126 with 110 bid.

The best conditions were in the eastern and southeastern districts where there was more clear weather than in other districts. The total acreage in all crops is slightly less than last year.

The principal change has been in the corn acreage, which is less than last year because farmers were unable to prepare all the land injended for this crop, due to the wet weather during May and June, the report continued. The wheat harvest was delayed by rains, and in some sections this work had not been completed by July 1. Hay harvest was retarded also by the rains and some farmers had difficulty in saving their crops.
